Submission (In the Garden)

Meditations on the First Sorrowful Mystery

It was to the garden of Gethsemane where the troubled Jesus would go.
After breaking bread and offering His body,
He would go to the garden to pray.

He took His disciples, Peter, John, and James when His final supper was done, and He told the three they should keep a faithful vigil
while He prayed just a stone's throw away.

Said Jesus to His friends, "I am deeply grieved.
Even unto death do I grieve.
Stay here, keep watch, pray to not fall to temptation."
Then, alone, He collapsed into prayer.

He knew that He must lay down his earthly life that again He could take it up,
but His human soul was filled with fear and sorrow,
so He prayed that His life might be spared.

He prayed to His Father, praising, telling Him:
"With You all things are possible,
and so if You will, You could save me from this burden,
but Your will, and not mine, shall be done."

Returning from prayer, He found His friends asleep, so He woke and chastised the three:
"Could you not with me stay awake for just one hour?
Spirit willing, but your flesh is weak."

Then Jesus resumed His time in lonely prayer
"If this cup shall not pass me by;
if it be Your will that the Son of Man must drink it,
then Your will, and not mine, shall be done."

A second time Jesus returned from His prayer to His friends and found them asleep.
"Stay awake and pray you may not come into trial."
Then He left them to pray a third time.

In agony Jesus prayed alone again and His sweat was as drops of blood.
In His anguish, God sent an angel to console Him.
Closing prayer, in submission, He rose.

Then reconciled, Jesus came to reconcile.
Once again, His followers slept.
"Why do you sleep? Arise; it is the hour when the Son of Man is betrayed."
